

Time Peace Alter

Kath Egan

Kath Egan's subtle interventions with nostalgic objects invite the viewer to consider alternative views to our commonly accepted narratives about time. Presenting assemblages, photography, video works and installation, this exhibition includes new work that explores how archetypes and universal spiritual traditions interact with the timeless realm by piercing the veil of reality with story, ritual and reverence.

Each person is a vessel where time bound and the eternal meet. What if we were to overcome our addiction to busyness and live more timelessly as our ancestors once did? Would our internal lives prosper? How would this then change the way we interact with nature and each other?
