

Multiverse

Meg Walters

Meg Walters is an emerging artist who uses painting as a tool to explore psychological narratives. She has found escapism fundamental to how she connects to nature, and ultimately herself. She makes landscape paintings from a memory of a feeling of a place. This has led her to create highly emotive works with a bold, yet sensitive use of colour and mark making.

'Multiverse', the title of Walters' exhibition, is a belief that we are living in one of potentially many universes. Bringing this concept of multiple realities into her everyday life has allowed her to be more receptive to subjective experiences. These works attempt to honor how individual viewpoints can co-exist while showcasing her own unique view of the world.
